The three civilians suffered different degrees of wounds, the source said, adding that the bomb went off while the civilians were collecting junk in Reshaf village in southern Lebanon.

The injured were rushed to hospital in Tyre where they underwent surgeries, the source said.

Israel, during its invasion of Lebanon last year, left behind hundreds of thousands of unexploded cluster bombs and anti-personnel mines in the south and western Bekaa. More than 25 people have been killed and over 150 injured.
